Livingston's Rat.

For several days past Livingston's bar-keeper noticed a rat that was making himself very familiar with the saloon. He would sneak out from behind the counter and after snatching some cheese and a bit of cracker would slip up to the waste pan under the beer faucet and take a drink. He sampled all the different brands of beer and finally settled down to Jake Klein's beer for a steady drink.

Sweeney-Guion.

The Justice Court was packed yesterday over the trial of the unpleasantness between Dr. Guion and John Sweeney. Mr. Sweeney and Dr. Guion conducted the cross examination in person. Scores of witnesses were examined, and no two seemed able to give just the same account of the trouble. After an afternoon spent in the trial the jury acquitted Sweeney.

THAT FOOT RACE.

Mr. Patrick Quinn's Version of the Trouble.

Yesterday a little, dark complected man with a long nose and twinkling black eye, and arranged in three varieties of raiment, was in the city yesterday. It was Mr. Patrick Quinn, of Silver, and he looked precisely like a leading character in "Charles O'Malley."

"Were you at the Reno foot race, Mr. Quinn?"

"You mane last Sabbath day, sor?"

"The same."

"Faith I was there wid some three thousand dollars."

"Did you back Bethune?"

"I belave I did, sor, along wid some others from Virginny City; li—I roast the soul of him."

"You expected him to run faster, did you not?"

"Bedad I did, and I had a right to. We tuck him out on a bad road, up hill, mostly wid der wind agin him, and he skipped over the space in six seconds, and wid a fair thrack at Reno, down hill and the wind at his back, and the same min wid the same watches, he wor considerable slower."

"Perhaps the Reno atmosphere was too heavy for him."

"I do believe that mon Furlong had his two hands on Bethune before I did. If I'd have known as much tin minutes before the race as I did wan minute after, I would see that my mon won or I'd fill the air wid him."

"Do you think he can make faster time?"

"Didn't I see him do it? I saw him in one end of the saloon, and he saw me first. He lit out, and in three jumps he cleared almost a hundredth fate. I'd have sixth thousand dollar in me pocket today if he'd made that time runnin' from Musgrove."

"Do you ever expect to meet him again?"

"If iver I do he'll run no more rhaces."

An Undesirable Citizen.

George Campbell, the man convicted a few months ago of rape, and who is now out of the State Prison by virtue of a ruling of the Supreme Court, has been advised to leave town, but announces that he is "going to stay and fight it out."

While technically not guilty of rape, his crime is of such a nature that he does not make a desirable citizen of any community, and if he consults his own interests well he will shake the dust of Carson from his feet forever. The feeling against him is strong and widespread, and if he but heard a tithe of the mutterings on the streets he would leave the State between days.

How She Does It.

Miss Minnie Palmer has explained to a reporter how she is able to kick so high on the stage and yet not appear immodest.

She winds 100 yards of lace about her hips and has it crinkled in and out, so that when she kicks her foot level with her head and points her toe at the gallery it does not offend the modesty of the most fastidious Reno audience.

One night, however, Miss Palmer was in such a hurry that she forgot her 100 yards of lace and went on the stage kicking just the same.

She got a great deal of applause from the pit and the gallery, but the dress circle was cold—cold.

NEVADA'S WAR CLAIMS.

Senator Stewart is Pressing Them in Congress.

There are three claims now pending in Congress on behalf of the State of Nevada against the United States Government. One is for money advanced by the State for the enrolling and forwarding of troops to put down the rebellion, and amounts to $349,697.

There is another for the White Pine Indian war, and amounts to $17,650; also the Elko Indian war amounting to $4,655. The total in round numbers is $372,000.

The economic Democratic Administration which, while howling about a surplus continues to help it grow, cut this claim of $372,000 down to $33,175, and all but $8,559 of this was for the Indian wars.

Senator Stewart recognizing the fact that these claims are just, and that the amount was actually paid by the State, has made an exhaustive Committee report, and proposes to push the claims through Congress for the whole amount.

The Indian war claims have got so far that they will be settled in full, that is, the principal will be paid, but the close-fisted Administration refused to pay the interest. Some of the claims are allowed to old residents of this city, and are as follows:

Mrs. Ellen Adams.....$150
Louis B. Epstine.....269
John Q. A. Moore.....580
Seymour Pixley.....305
H. P. Phillips.....296
P. S. Corbett.....95
Mary Curry.....500
O. P. Lebo.....334
Wellington Stewart.....400

Some of the claims have been rejected and some cut down, but nearly all have been allowed by the State Board of Examiners, and will ultimately be paid.

Senator Stewart proposes first to get the State claim through, and then turn his attention to the other two.
